

More proof that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saves women from surgical operations.

Mrs. S. A. Williams, of Gardiner, Maine, writes:

"I was a great sufferer from female troubles, and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound restored me to health in three months, after my physician declared that an operation was absolutely necessary."

Mrs. Alvina Sperling, of 154 Cleybourne Ave., Chicago, Ill., writes:

"I suffered from female troubles, a tumor and much inflammation. Two of the best doctors in Chicago decided that an operation was necessary to save my life. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound entirely cured me without an operation."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

The origin of the application of the term "popinjay" to a dude was as follows: The popinjay was a figure of a bird shot at for practice. The jay was decked with particolored feathers, so as to resemble a parrot and, being suspended on a pole, served as a target. He whose ball or arrow brought down the bird by cutting the string by which it was hung received the proud title of Captain Popinjay for the rest of the day and was escorted home in triumph.

Mystery of Seedless Fruit.

Science so far has failed to furnish any explanation of the mystery of seedless fruits. They are not the outcome of the work of man. Man perpetuates them; he does no more. The seedless orange was found in a state of seedlessness.—Vegetarian.

Charcoal is appreciated by the flock. Provide it for them.

Rape makes fine hog feed. They do not bloat on it as sheep do.

Sow a little more clover and divide it up into hog pastures. It will pay big.

It is a good scheme to use kerosene liberally about the interior of the place the entire year.

A dairy cow shut up in a dark stable and fed on highly concentrated food quickly turns out.

Better to plant a little in the garden and plant well than to half plant a great quantity of stuff.

The community where the good dairy cow is in the majority is the community which is marked by contentment and prosperity.

The feeding out of the odds and ends of fodder before the cold and wet fall weather ruins it is important and means the saving of a snug sum every year.

Feed the cow all the hay or other roughness she will eat, even if she is running on good pasture. Her appetite tells her better what she needs than you can tell.

There are about twenty-five kinds of nut-bearing trees in the United States. The consumption of nuts is increasing rapidly, the demand evidently growing much faster than the home supply is increased.

Some genius of figures estimates that the corn crop of Missouri for 1907 would fill 8,000,000 farm wagons, which, if hitched close together, would make a chain that would reach around the world.

All good sheep feeders have good racks and feed boxes or troughs. A flock may live if fed on ground, but nothing less than keen hunger will prompt so delicate an animal to take its feed from the wet and filth of a yard.

The first butterfly farm was established about ten years ago by William Watkins, a famous English entomologist, at Eastbourne, England. There are now many similar farms in France and other countries. The object of these farms is to rear silk worms.

The Holstein breeders in their recent national meeting appointed a committee to secure a federal law for the inspection of cattle for tuberculosis and to do away with inspection by the states. There is no question that such a law would prove advantageous.

Unless the stock is fed an amount over and above that which is needed for body maintenance there will be no gain. A thousand-pound steer has been found by experiment to require daily 15 pounds of timothy hay, 12 pounds of clover hay and seven pounds of corn meal just to keep on an even keel. More must be fed if there is to be any gain.

If a neighbor asks us to do an errand or two while in town why be grumpy? We may want to ask a favor ourselves next day or next week. And, by the way, some men have a knack of doing a troublesome act for a neighbor in such a manner as to create the impression that it is the one thing that gives him great pleasure. That is a fine gift and we cannot cultivate it too much.

It seems at the present time that the graduates of the state agricultural schools of the country are finding no trouble in getting located. The young man who knows the science of good farming and how to apply it commands $75 to $100 a month, with his board and lodging, and lives easily, comfortably and wholesomely. The farmer, who can do so, should give his sons the education that will lift them to the heights of their occupation. Young men trained so that they can command such financial returns for their services to others can use their scientific training to still greater profit for themselves. The scientific farmer, who is worth $100 or $150 a month to another man, is worth $200 to $300 to himself if he apply science to his own soil.

Medicinal Properties of Vegetables.

Vegetables have medicinal properties. Tomatoes act on the liver, spinach on the kidneys, so does asparagus; all kinds of greens purify the blood. Lettuce and cucumbers cool the system, and celery is excellent for both rheumatism and the nerves. A soup made with onions is regarded by the French as a restorative in cases of debility and weakness of the digestive organs. Leeks and garlic promote digestion, and it is said that beet root gives energy and cheerfulness.

Fruit and Sugar for Horses.

Grain is not the only food on which the horse thrives. In Egypt, the Khedive's best mares are fed largely on curants, and these animals are noted for their endurance and speed.

Figs, during the fig harvest, form the food of the horses of Smyrna; they turn to it from oats or hay.

The green tops of the sugar cane are fed to the horses of the West Indies, and for long weeks, in many parts of Canada, windfall apples form the horse's food.

In Tasmania peaches and in Arabia dates take the place of the usual hay and oats, corn and bran.

Practical Pigeon Hints.

Pigeons must have grit. Don't forget that.

There should be one bath pan for every twelve pair of birds.

Hemp seed is one of the best stimulants known for pigeons.

Thomas Wright says a pigeon's prime of life is from 5 to 9 years of age.

Green food is a luxury, but not a necessity. It is advised not to feed lettuce to pigeons.

Never catch a bird in the daytime unless absolutely necessary. This alone will make tame birds wild.

Never feed one kind of grain exclusively. It is not good for the health of pigeons and greatly lessens the number of young birds raised.

It is said by experienced squab growers that in ninety-nine times out of 100 if two birds are hatched, the first hatched will be a male.

The homer is somewhat larger than the Antwerp, longer faced, and in a greater variety of colors, and in many ways superior as a squab breeder.

Make It Gradual.

The change from whole to skim milk in feeding the calf should be made by withholding a small amount of milk the first day, more the second, and so on. The amount withheld is thus gradually increased from day to day. An amount of skim milk must be added, at least equal in quantity of new milk withheld, until the change has been completed.

Some substances should be added as soon as the change begins that will supply an equivalent to the fat contained in the new milk withheld. No substance has been found superior for such use to linseed meal, that is, ground flaxseed. Oil meal will answer the same purpose, and is far more frequently fed than ground flax, for the reason probably that it is relatively cheaper. When the latter is used it is necessary to feed a larger quantity than the former.

In some instances the meal thus added is stirred in the milk, but in other instances, as when the calves have learned to take meal before the change from new to skim milk has begun, it is simply added to the meal. Sometimes the flaxseed is made into a jelly, and this fed along with the milk.

This practice was common years ago, but it is not so much practiced now, since separator milk has come to be so extremely available. The jelly was usually warmed before it was put into the milk, and this helped to warm the latter when cold. The amount to be fed may be regulated for a time, at least, by the influence that the meal or the jelly exercises on the digestion. If too much is fed, the digestion will be unduly lax.—Prof. Thomas Shaw.

Care of Horses.

While grass is the best condition powder in the world, it must be given in very small doses at first until the horse gets used to it.

It is much better to let a horse get his grass from the pasture in his own way than to cut it and place it in his manger for him. If horses are allowed to run in the pasture at night they should be provided with shelter to which they can go in case of storms. A wet hide is conducive to much trouble.

In spite of the general belief that all mules are born stubborn and vicious it is not true. If right care is used in breaking the mule when young he can be made just as gentle and useful as a horse. Most bad mules are the result of bad breaking.

Did you ever notice that a new collar which fits perfectly in the spring may be too large in a week? This is because a horse's shoulders shrink when suddenly put to hard work when he is soft.

A sore neck is invariably the result of an ill-fitting collar. If the old horse shows a ravenous appetite all the time but does not get fat you may be pretty sure his teeth are bad and that he is unable to properly chew his food. Get busy with a file.

The inside of the horse stable should be kept clean with whitewash. It is not right to bring a horse in from the bright sunlight and shut him up in a dark stable for more than a few hours, particularly in the day time.

Some horses are so fastidious that they will not lie down in filthy straw, and thus fail to get the needed rest. If he works hard he deserves a good, clean bed.

A horse's stomach is small and he should be fed often. He will begin to lose flesh the moment he goes hungry.

Night Sweats & Cough.

E. W. Walton, Condr. S. P. Ry., 717 Van Ness St., San Antonio, Tex., writes: "During the summer and fall of 1902, my annoyance from catarrh reached that stage where it was almost misery and developed alarming symptoms, such as a very deep-seated cough, night sweats, and pains in the head and chest. I experimented with several so-called remedies before I finally decided to take a thorough course of Peruna."

"Two of my friends had gone so far as to inform me that the thing for me to do was to resign my position and seek a higher, more congenial climate. Every one thought I had consumption and I was not expected to live very long."

"Having procured some Peruna, I decided to give it a thorough test and applied myself assiduously to the task of taking it, as per instructions, in the meantime."

"The effects were soon apparent, all alarming symptoms disappeared and my general health became fully as good as it had ever been in my life."

"I have resorted to the use of Peruna on two or three occasions since that time to cure myself of bad colds."

An expedition is being equipped, under the auspices of the Russian ministry of marine, with the object of discovering a northeast passage between the Atlantic and Pacific oceans.

Under "Marshall" Law.

Senator Paynter, of Kentucky, says that when James Watson Webb, of New York, made Tom Marshall, of Kentucky, a target for his editorial lance, he struck a tarlatan. Marshall challenged and insisted upon a duel, which was fought near Wheelington, Ind. The principals were stationed ten feet apart, and exchanged shots without effect. Marshall insisted upon another shot and both men fired simultaneously. Col. Webb staggered, his seconds laid him on the ground and the surgeon announced that he was wounded below the knee.

"That was the lowest act of my life," shouted Marshall. "Stand him up again for another shot."

But Webb was unable to stand. He was taken to a hotel, where he was laid up for several weeks, saying to his visiting friends: "I am confined to my bed, under Marshall law."

"Refused you? Surprising! Did you walk with her in the moonlight?"

"And you would gladly die for her?"

"I did, but just then some one yelled, 'Hands up!' and I ran three blocks before her mischievous young brother caught me and told me it was only a joke."—Kansas City Times.

Letters from Prominent Physicians addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Dr. T. Gerald Plattner, of Buffalo, N. Y., says: "Your Castoria is good for children and I frequently prescribe it, always obtaining the desired results."

Dr. Gustave A. Eisengraeber, of St. Paul, Minn., says: "I have used your Castoria repeatedly in my practice with good results, and can recommend it as an excellent, mild and harmless remedy for children."

Dr. E. J. Dennis, of St. Louis, Mo., says: "I have used and prescribed your Castoria in my sanitarium and outside practice for a number of years and find it to be an excellent remedy for children."

Dr. S. A. Buchanan, of Philadelphia, Pa., says: "I have used your Castoria in the case of my own baby and find it pleasant to take, and have obtained excellent results from its use."

Dr. J. E. Simpson, of Chicago, Ill., says: "I have used your Castoria in cases of colic in children and have found it the best medicine of its kind on the market."

Dr. R. E. Eskildson, of Omaha, Neb., says: "I find your Castoria to be a standard family remedy. It is the best thing for infants and children I have ever known and I recommend it."

Dr. L. R. Robinson, of Kansas City, Mo., says: "Your Castoria certainly has merit. Is not its age, its continued use by mothers through all these years, and the many attempts to imitate it, sufficient recommendation? What can a physician add? Leave it to the mothers."

Dr. Edwin F. Pardee, of New York City, says: "For several years I have recommended your Castoria and shall always continue to do so, as it has invariably produced beneficial results."

Dr. N. B. Sizer, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I object to what are called patent medicines, where maker alone knows what ingredients are put in them, but I know the formula of your Castoria and advise its use."
